

The sounds of silence aren't golden, but rare

The tranquil glades of Kottinger Village senior citizen housing in Pleasanton have been jostled a bit by a minority of residents who feel the housing authority needs to settle some policies about a couple of day - to - day things which are important to them. Residents want better access to their community building in the evening and they'd like a way of letting more than one person know about personal emergencies so that quick help is assured.

Discontent at Kottinger

PLEASANTON — Senior citizens living at Kottinger Village voiced complaints Tuesday afternoon about how their project is being run.

The complaints centered around two problems: the alleged lack of access to the key for the community building at night and the alleged lack of a satisfactory system of calling for help in an emergency.

The two specific complaints were told in an atmosphere of mistrust about the administration of the housing authority.

One tenant told The Times after the meeting that residents had the problems back when John Bowling was housing authority executive director. She said she thought things might change when Bowling left and Michael Parsons took his job, but they haven't, in her opinion.

Parsons during the meeting said he was interested in input from the residents and noted that administration of the housing authority is a two way street. Tenants have the responsibility of communicating their feelings to management along a chain of command which finally ends at the housing authority commissioners.

Pat Uomini, Parsons' assistant, noted that one of the complaints was taken to the first step, but never reached her office, which is the second step.

The housing authority board responded to the two complaints by suggesting that they be taken up at the next tenants' meeting at 7 p.m. Sept. 14.

One of the residents said after the meeting that it sounded like something might finally be done about the two problems. But another woman said she would write directly to the Department of Housing and Urban Development which funded the housing project.

One resident liked the way Commissioner Ed Alves took an interest in one of the problems, and thought that might be the harbinger of some results.

The community hall issue revolves around the availability of the key to the building. It seems that the resident who has the key is not always home when the key is needed and Parsons will meet with the tenants to see if a more flexible solution can be found.

The emergency bell issue involves the alleged lack of response when it is rung sometimes. The bell works fine, but there is not always someone at the other end to answer it. Residents said they would like it in a public place, perhaps the flagpole, so that all residents could hear it and those able to do so could respond.

Both problems, Parsons noted, are really created by the need for a full-time manager on the premises, but there is a lack of money to hire one. The housing authority has relied on volunteer help from the tenants to accomplish the goals, he said.

Some residents have been critical behind the scenes about the two volunteers, alleging they are "in league" with the housing authority management. After the meeting one resident told The Times the two volunteers act like "self-appointed managers". During the meeting a resident alluded to the volunteers and said, in a nicer way, that some residents are not happy with the way the volunteers are operating.

The housing authority commissioners also did some groundwork in their drive to replace Komandorski Village's World War II "temporary" housing. They appointed four committees to get things underway.

The land committee, which will seek a site or sites for the new housing includes John Hansen, chairman; Beverly Montgomery; and Christine Pearson. The finance committee has Pearson as its chairperson and Alves and Cecilia Governor as its members.

Penny Delaray and Bill Thompson will handle the worries over getting sewer connections and a committee to handle political liaison with any public agencies to be consulted is also in the works.

After a noisy day in the city you turn your car toward the quiet suburbs, a so-called bedroom community.

The freeway din (100 decibels) is still ringing in your ears as you pass the airport on the edge of town. A jet is taking off (150 decibels) and a single engine plane is idling (62 decibels) near the edge of the runway. On past the railroad yard you see a man riveting a steel tank (130 decibels) while fifty feet away a freight train is rumbling along (75 decibels). Ah, you think to yourself, it's so nice to be back to the quiet suburbs.

You enter the city limits and come upon a road crew sandblasting (110 decibels) so you turn up your car radio (80 decibels) to mask out the noise. At the intersection the Triumph next to you accelerates (92 decibels) and you feel a slight tingling in your skull. By the time you get home to the quiet street where your house is located, the sounds of kids yelling on the playground (92 decibels), horns honking (80 decibels) and carts clanking (50 decibels) at the shopping center seem all jumbled up in your head, and you're glad to step in the door of your cool, quiet home, and close out the noisy world.

You enter the kitchen where the air conditioner hums away in the window (55 decibels) reassuringly. You start dinner which requires the use of a blender (92 decibels), a food mixer (80 decibels), and the garbage disposal (90 decibels). While waiting for dinner to cook you run the vacuum (75 decibels) over the carpet to tidy up a bit.

Then you shout out (80 decibels) the back door to your son to mow the lawn. Just then a jet goes over at 5000 feet (115 decibels). He starts the power mower (106 decibels) and you slam the door (80 decibels) to shut out the noise, and turn on the stereo for some relaxing music (68 decibels). When he phone rings (65 decibels) you have difficulty hearing who is talking, but finally by shouting (80 decibels) into the phone you learn that your husband working with a grinder in his workshop (104 decibels) has awakened his baby. You hear the baby screaming through an open window (92 decibels).

Your other neighbor has planned a house party for tonight, and the four-piece rock band has arrived early to rehearse in his garage (110 decibels). Then they open the door for the benefit of neighborhood music lovers and the din (115 decibels) nears the pain threshold.

A dozen or so of the party guests start arriving on motorcycles (110 decibels each).

You retreat back into your relatively quiet house. The background sounds of electric clocks (10 decibels), refrigerator (35 decibels), and a fly buzzing (8 decibels) restore your confidence that all is well.

Noisemakers include jet aircraft, which shatter the silence at 150 decibels.

After a quiet dinner of clanking dishes (50 decibels) and boisterous talk from the kids (72 decibels) you take it easy as your daughter slams the dishes to the dishwasher (65 decibels) and turns it on (75 decibels). You relax in your recliner to read "All Quiet on the Western Front."

The kids turn on the television in the family room (70 decibels).

Suddenly one of the rock band's amplifiers explodes (95 decibels) and the fire department arrives with sirens screaming (100 decibels) and engines roaring (105 decibels). A shouting, excited crowd gathers in the street (98 decibels). This starts a St. Bernard barking (75 decibels) and several other dogs begin howling (65 decibels).

After things quiet down, the family gets to bed and you get all prepared for a good night's sleep. The background sounds in house at night usually amount to only about 30 decibels of noise but because of the warm weather you have turned on the window air conditioner (55 decibels). Everyone goes to sleep as quiet settles over the residential neighborhood.

About three in the morning, both you and your husband are jolted awake suddenly. Panicky feelings set you quiver. What can be wrong? Your husband feels it too. Now the whole family is awake. The children rush in to ask what has happened. The house is dark and silent.

"What's wrong?" they ask. That's it. The total silence.

Your husband tries the light switch. The electricity is off. The children sit on the bed, cuddling close for reassurance. Is it the end of the world? The silence is completely unnerving. The family huddles close together.

Then from somewhere outside comes the eery sound of a dog barking (75 decibels) and the neighbor's baby starts crying (80 decibels). You start to feel better already.

Then the electricity comes back on and all the familiar sounds return, and you are flooded with relief. The air conditioner clicks on (55 decibels), the clock and refrigerator restore the background noise to 30 decibels.

The garbage truck arrives with a grinding roar (98 decibels) and clanking cans (60 decibels). The alarm clock goes off (80 decibels) and you know that all is well.

The world has not ended, but it was a close call.

Pleasanton man charged in shooting

PLEASANTON — A 36-year-old Pleasanton man who allegedly fired two gunshots at a 7-11 store clerk late Tuesday has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

According to police reports, Juan Manuel Morales, 36, of 6070 Sequoia Court, entered the 7-11 convenience store on Hopyard Road near Valley Trails before midnight Tuesday with his children.

Howard Russell Davis, a

19-year-old clerk working at the store, reportedly refused service to one of Morales' children and a scuffle broke out, in which one child was allegedly struck. Police said Morales left, returned a short time later to allegedly threaten Davis, and departed.

When Davis left work a short time later, he observed a car following him "very close" until he reached Black Avenue and Camino Brazos, police said. Suddenly a bullet shattered the rear window of Davis' van; he sped up and managed to escape the trailing car after a second shot had been fired. Police wouldn't reveal where the second bullet landed.

Police were called and located a suspect vehicle outside Morales' Sequoia Court home. Officers maintained a six-hour stake-out of the home until a search warrant and probable cause for arrest warrant had been received, signed by Livermore Municipal Court Judge Al

Lewis.

Morales was arrested about 6 a.m. Wednesday and booked at Santa Rita Jail on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder, a felony. He remains in custody on $125,000 bail.

The district attorney's office late yesterday formally charged Morales with assault with intent to commit murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Graduates must prove their skills

Beginning in 1981, students won't be able to get a high school diploma until they master certain basic skills.

The state Legislature has just passed a bill aimed at requiring each school district to administer a skills test to prospective graduates. Local Assemblyman Floyd Mori was one of the legislators in favor of AB 3408, sponsored by Democrat Gary Hart of Santa Barbara.

The bill has not yet been signed by Gov. Jerry Brown, who has 30 days to think it over. "There has been no opposition from the Governor yet, but you never know," was the analysis of a Mori spokesman.

Meanwhile, all the Valley school districts have already been working on minimum standards, in anticipation of the much-discussed bill. Local school officials are predicting a long and stormy struggle before final standards are drawn up.

The new bill goes a step beyond a bill passed five years ago requiring school districts to establish competency levels, but not graduation requirements. The thinking behind both bills was that too many students are leaving school without the skills they will need in everyday life—enough reading to understand a news story, enough writing to fill out a job application, enough math to balance a checkbook or fill out an income tax return.

A third piece of legislation passed a year ago set up a proficiency test which enables students who pass to get a diploma without completing all four years of high school. That test is standardized throughout the state, in contrast to the new graduation test which will be designed by the individual school districts.

AB 3408 (if signed by the governor) will take effect in January.

By February 1, 1978, the state Department of Education is supposed to provide school districts with examples of the kinds of test items they should be considering.

Four months later, school districts are supposed to send the state copies of their own minimum standards, although the state does not approve or disapprove any of the local standards.

In June, 1978, high school juniors and seniors will be tested for the first time—but a diploma will not be denied to the flunkies.

The real thing begins in 1981, the first year that seniors (who are those students now going into eighth grade) will have to meet their school districts' minimum standards in order to graduate.

In the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, pupil services director Mike Halloran says, "We've known this was coming for some time."

The district has already set up specialized committees to set standards in language arts and math, and this year will be working on social studies.

They foresee a lot of controversy because, as Assistant Superintendent Jim Solberg puts it, "It's hard to explain to the public that when you set minimum survival standards, it doesn't mean that's all you expect; it's all you guarantee."

"Over 80 per cent of our students go into college. Obviously, they achieve a great deal more."

The Livermore Unified School District is also working toward minimum standards, with a long-standing committee headed by secondary education director Lee Thompson.

In Pleasanton and Dublin, Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for the Amador High School district, has been staff liaison to a 30-member Graduation Task Force committee made up of parents, students and teachers.

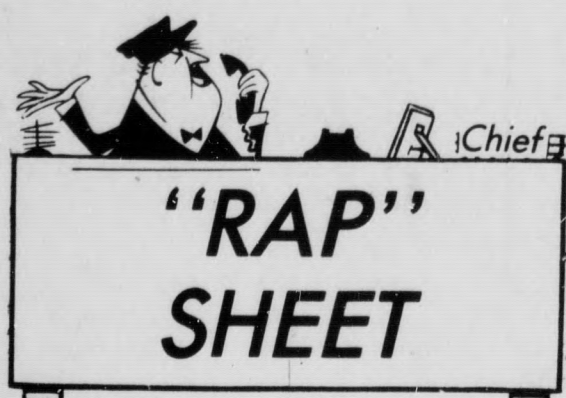

Jack Ogden, the English department chairman at Amador High, heads the committee.

According to Sweeney, the committee wants to see students graduating with at least a 10th-grade reading level (slightly higher than the grade level at which most newspapers and magazines are said to be written.)

They plan to phase in the new requirements gradually over the next four years. Sweeney comments: "We see a lot of work yet to be done."

Three suspects arraigned after fight at Granucci's

LIVERMORE — Three men were arraigned Tuesday in municipal court on felony assault charges after a fight Sunday night at Granucci's Tavern which sent five people to the hospital.

Charged with felony assault are Alfred Marulio Gutierrez, 39, of Oakland, Kenneth Brown Ranney, 27, of 927 Jefferson Ave., and his brother, Bruce Lyman Ranney, 34, of 642 South O St., both of Livermore.

According to police reports of the incident, words were exchanged between the suspects and a group of men across the bar. The suspects reportedly left the bar, returned in three minutes and asked one man to go outside; he refused, and Gutierrez allegedly began swinging a bandana with a one pound lead weight inside at the victims.

Receiving treatment for head wounds after the attack were David Moyles, 38, of 8062 Arroyo Road, and John and Robert Adian of 4935 Golden Road, all of Pleasanton; John Woods, 22, of Fresno, and Peter Kuber, 26, of Tracy.

A bartender told police she attempted to phone for help when one suspect allegedly said he would rip the telephone off the wall if she dialed.

Police recovered a yellow bandana at the scene. It was blood-stained and contained a one pound lead ball, police said.

The suspects are scheduled to enter pleas Sept. 21 at 9 a.m.

Riderless motorcycle enters shop, doesn't exit

PLEASANTON — A "phantom" motorcycle, whose rider fell off when he tried to do "wheelies" for his friends, took off across a parking lot and roared into Belmer's Machine Shop on Commerce Circle Monday, causing an undetermined amount of damage.

Michael Edward Thomas of 792 El Rancho Drive in Livermore told police he was doing some wheelies for his friends when he fell from the cycle. The cycle continued on and into the machine shop, while Joseph Anthony Beimer, the shop owner, looked on, unbelieving.

The cycle became entangled in a welder cooling tank and broke a cabinet door. Thomas received minor cuts in the fall.

Beimer agreed not to press charges after Thomas said he would pay for damages.

Eight pot plants seized at Holmes Street residence

LIVERMORE — Eight marijuana plants visible on a Holmes Street residence window shelf were confiscated by police Monday evening, police report.

Officer Dan Killeen spotted the plants as he passed 740 Holmes. He and a back-up patrol went to the residence and seized the plants.

Residents in the house told police that they didn't know marijuana cultivation was illegal, "and wouldn't have done so" had they known, it was reported.

No arrests were made.

Three injured in First Street accident

PLEASANTON — Three girls were injured Sunday when their car struck a parked forklift, police report.

Officers said the unlicensed 17-year-old driver apparently became distracted and didn't see the car edging toward the right curb. The car struck a forklift hitched to the back of another vehicle parked on First.

The driver received cuts to her right arm. A 13-year-old girl sustained a broken nose and possible broken arm, and a 14-year-old girl received cuts and bruises to her face.

Police are recommending a citation be issued to the 17-year-old for driving without a license.

New residents struck by burglars

PLEASANTON — A family just moving into an Alder Court home were burglarized of more than $500 in jewelry and cash, police reported.

Lawrence T. Goodwin told police that while the house was vacant, burglars took three rings and $30 cash from a bedroom dresser. Missing items include a large blue sapphire gold ring, a princess gold ring with many stones, and another unidentified ring.

Police have no suspects in the $522 theft.

Two persons injured in wreck on Division Street

PLEASANTON — Two persons were injured when a car struck a parked vehicle on Division Street Monday, police reported.

Edward George Wilkinson of 3544 Touriga Drive in Pleasanton told police he became drowsy while driving, and struck a car parked at the curb a short time later, police said.

Margaret Ann Harper of Foothill Road was taken to Valley Memorial Hospital with severe facial cuts, police said. Wilkinson reportedly had a bloody nose and scratches from the accident.

No citations were issued.

Sheriff increases patrols near Shadow Cliffs

PLEASANTON — The sheriff's department says it will once again use off-road and four-wheel drive vehicles to patrol dirt road areas around Shadow Cliffs and other places where motorcyclists illegally drive, it was announced.

A spokesman said the summer had been quiet regarding the number of illegal cyclists at off-road locations, but complaints had increased in the last two weeks which prompted the reinstatement of such patrols.

Taxes going up and down

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Offsetting this week's 1-cent increase in the county property tax rate, Bay Area Rapid Transit District directors have lowered their tax bill for Alameda County property owners.

But Contra Costa County residents, who saw their county tax rate fall 10.5 cents this week, will pay an extra three-cents to help the district retire some $44.5 million in general construction bonds and interest.

Directors dropped the Alameda County rate 5-cents to 42.2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation while raising Contra Costa County's to 47.8 cents.

The State Board of Equalization has determined that Alameda County set its assessments at 25.8 per cent of the fair market value, while Contra Costa County fell below the required 25 per cent to 22.8. The ratios are used to adjust property tax burdens in inter-county districts like BART.

The owner of a $50,000 home in the valley will see about a $5 drop in his BART property tax, while a Contra Costa home will pay an additional $3.

But because assessments have risen in both counties, the average homeowner probably will pay more.

Last year's $50,000 home now is assessed at about $55,500, raising the Alameda County BART tax about $1.

A similar assessment increase in Contra Costa County, coupled with the new, higher rate, will cost the homeowner about $10 more this year.

The tax levy fell 3-cents per $100 for San Franciscans.

United Way proclaimed

PLEASANTON — September will be United Way Month in this city, Mayor Robert Philcox declared last week.

The mayor called on all citizens and organizations to recognize the special month in honor of an agency which channels help to more than 190 volunteer human care service agencies in five Bay Area counties.

Murray school survey is standoff

DUBLIN — A mail and phone survey of Murray School District parents, conducted over the past summer, has resulted in a virtual 50-50 standoff between converting a school to seventh and eighth grade use or maintaining the status quo.

Of 3,615 questionnaires mailed out, 1,190 or 33 per cent were returned to Applied Technology, the firm hired by the district to conduct the survey.

When it became apparent a response of 75 to 90 per cent was not going to be achieved, the firm started calling residents.

So the compilations reviewed last night are broken into two categories, voluntary (mail) and random (phoned to those not responding).

Of the 993 random responses, 40 per cent favored conversion of either an existing K-6 or K-8 school to solely seventh - eighth while 43 per cent supported maintaining the present organizational system (status quo). Sixteen per cent gave no stated feeling and 1 per cent did not respond.

However, the initial mail response of 1,190, found 48 per cent favoring conversion, 43 per cent status quo, 7 per cent no stated feeling and 2 per cent no response.

Applied Technology also furnished the district with a book of comments received from district residents. According to Ann Feather of Applied Technology, the most important concern echoed was that of busing K-6 students. She said the least interest in the study was evidenced by parents of kindergarten and eighth grade children.

Two other central concerns were "I want conversion but don't want my child bused" or "I don't want my kids bused but younger ones should be separated from junior high."

Breaking the mail survey down by school areas, Dublin K-6-7-8 parents went for the status quo 71 to 21 per cent and 58 to 29 per cent, respectively. Fallon K-6 also favored the status quo, 59 to 37 per cent.

On the other hand Donlon K-6-7 parents were heavily in favor of converting a school ... 66 to 26 and 57 to 24 per cent, respectively.

Earlier in the day, Residents in Action, a Dublin School area group opposing conversion of that school, presented Supt. Donald Williams a petition containing 1,308 signatures supporting that view.

RIA intends on presenting an alternate plan at the Sept. 7 board meeting at Murray School.

After dwelling at length on the mountain of survey statistics, CAC liaison Wally Moreskine offered prospective ways of converting Dublin to seventh - eighth grade use. A final recommendations from the CAC to the board is expected at the Oct. 4 meeting.

No word on fees for fair

PLEASANTON — One of Councilman Frank Brandes' unanswered questions about the Alameda County Fairgrounds may have to go unanswered for quite some time.

Brandes abstained from voting last week on the fairgrounds' list of construction priorities partly because he has no information on whether the fair will be charged a connection fee to hook up to the VCSW sewage treatment plant or the city will be expected to pay for the fairgrounds.

There are two points at which the fair could be charged fees: one is for its share in the connection line which will run from the old city plant to the VCSW plant when the old plant becomes a pumping station and the other is when the new addition to the VCSW plant opens and takes the effluent.

City Manager Bill Edgar said it's premature to think about charging a fee to the fairgrounds now. The whole sewer plan is contingent on voter approval of the LAVWMA pipeline. If the city gets the green light on that plan, then the city can decide whether to recover any fees from the fairgrounds, said Edgar.

Determining a fee would appear to require sampling a lot of data. During the two busy weeks of fair time, the fairgrounds contributes 200,000 gallons of effluent per day to the city's sewage treatment facilities. That's approximately 10 per cent of the sewer interceptor line which the city proposes to build.

The city's share of building the interceptor line is $330,000, so by that standard, the fairgrounds would pay $33,000 for compensation. But during the other 50 weeks of the fair, usage typically is down to a few people who maintain the fairgrounds and a few year-round concessions like the 9 hole golf course, Tennis Faire, and the health studio. By that criteria the fair's fee ought to be the equivalent of a few homes.

Of course, some bigger events occur during the year, including some large exhibitions which attract hundreds or thousands of people in a day, so that would add to the demand. Probably the fee would have to be averaged from all the uses, great and little, over the 365 days, assuming the city will charge the fairgrounds a fee, said one city staff source.

DUBLIN — The Dublin Public Library has hired two new full-time staff members. They are Elizabeth Talbot and Neel Parikh.

Talbot is in charge of the young adult section. This includes junior high and high school age groups.

Before getting a Masters of Library Science degree, she had tried other careers. Her first job was being an airline hostess. But she later put her undergraduate training in psychology and sociology to use. She did specialized work in intelligence studies coordinated with animal behavior. In 1973 she decided to go to Berkeley and get her MLS along with junior college and secondary teaching credentials. She graduated the following year.

Talbot's prime goal in relation to her new job is to let young adults know the resources that are available in the library. She hopes to set up direct communication with area schools and work closely with their librarians. By doing this she believes the two can supplement each other and give students better service.

Another one of her goals is to retrieve materials from other libraries to satisfy the needs of young adults. She would like for her reading group to have access to recreational material as well as academic.

"If they want to read about motorcycles I want to get them the best books available on the subject," Talbot said.

She is also interested in having students and advisors that are involved in community groups, churches, scouts and recreational clubs make their needs known.

"I can serve these young people in the community better if I know what they need and want," she said.

She would like for this age group to let the library know what they would consider necessary in the proposed new library.

"If they want comfortable chairs, record booths — whatever. I think we should listen to what they have to say."

Neel Parikh is in charge of the children's group. She is also a Berkeley graduate with a B.S. degree in Political Science and a Masters in Librarianship. Parikh has traveled abroad and will be using many of the skills she learned during her tours.

Dublin Library adds to staff

One favorite of the children is her puppet shows. Some of the puppets were collected in Europe and India and Parikh gives shows at the library.

She also does finger-plays which is a way of using hands and fingers in place of puppets when telling a story. The children love to participate and make their own sound effects.

"Audience participation is one of the nicest things about working with children," she said. Parikh would also like to become involved with schools and community groups. One of her main projects for this coming year is to visit children in all of the classrooms in the Murray School District.

Both young ladies said their main goal is to make the Dublin Public Library an integral part of the community.

They say the library has a great deal to offer and they hope to inform the public about these valuable resources.

Hardware for First Street building

PLEASANTON — Al Bernard and Mike Garden own the Pleasanton Body Shop, but the two story building they propose for First Street next to the Gas and Save is intended for a hardware store or similar use, a planning staffer told The Times Tuesday.

Garden and Bernard will seek permission from the planning commission next Wednesday to build on the parcel which is zoned for service commercial uses.

The proposed building would have a mansard roof and from First Street it would have the appearance of a one - story building. Total area for the building would be 3,900 square feet.

On another item, the planning commission will consider placing a variety of parcels around town in study districts. The lands were placed in study districts four months ago on an urgency basis and the commission will have a public hearing to consider extending the duration of the study districts.

Among the affected parcels are the McManus property near Youth Sports Park, 18 acres on the corner of Foothill Road and Bernal Avenue, property on the Pleasanton Ridge near Longview including that tract, property along West Pico between Vineyard Avenue and Kottinger Park, and an area along Rose Avenue between Fair and Pleasanton avenues.

The commission also will consider amending the city ordinances pertaining to driveways so that corner lots can have two driveways. Commissioners also will look at the possibility of allowing automatic car washes in the central commercial (C-C) zoning districts. The public hearing notice discussing the proposed change notes that allowing a car wash in a C-C district could bring noise to a district which is supposed to have "compact, intensive stores and shops." Such a use "could be incompatible with residential uses permitted in the C-C district and adjoining the district," said the notice.

However, making the car wash subject to a conditional use permit would mitigate many of the objectionable things about the car wash's conflict with a neighborhood, said City Manager Bill Edgar, who signed the legal notice. The proposed amendment to the zoning code would not create, to any significant degree, any effects enumerated in Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate the environment could be harmed, said Edgar.

Persons who want more information on the zoning change or who want to appeal the city manager's decision by the deadline Monday, should get in touch with City Hall, 200 Bernal Ave.

The commission also will look at Jimmie Balch's request to divide a 2.37 acre lot at 255 Kottinger Ave. into three buildable lots and Roger Bailey's request to raise pigeons at 3386 Harpers Ferry Court Ct.

Also before the commission is the Mormon Church's request to change multiple and single family residential zoning to public and institutional zoning to reflect the property's actual use.

Noise affects our health and our sanity

By Arline Butterfield

Did you know that your hearing can be destroyed by listening to your stereo?

If the volume is turned too high, over 70 decibels of sound, the destruction of the microscopic hairs inside the cochlea of the inner ear start to deteriorate. Once they are destroyed, there is no known way of restoring them. Deafness results. (A decibel is a measure of sound intensity relative to a standard level.)

Yet, many of our children spend much time being blasted with the noise of stereos and amplified music, both at home and at social events. Those who participate in rock groups or play amplified music run an even greater risk of irreparable damage to their hearing.

Hearing loss as a result of noise is a special concern of La Verne Cave, current chairman of the Livermore Noise Abatement Committee, and a state licensed hearing aid specialist. She is interested in starting a pilot project in the schools centered around hearing education.

According to Mrs. Cave another noise factor which affects health significantly is the ability to sleep, as well as the quality of sleep possible under certain noise conditions.

Thirty-five decibels is the maximum noise allowable in order to obtain the deep sleep which comes toward morning, and which is necessary for the recuperative powers of the body to work. Yet air conditioners, often found in bedrooms, usually far exceed this point. This alone could account for that tired feeling some of us have when we get up in the morning.

In addition to hearing loss and loss of sleep quality, excessive noise results in other physiological damage to our bodies. Excess noise can cause a rise in blood cholesterol, a change in heart rhythm, a rise in blood pressure, a change in stomach secretions, and other symptoms as the nervous system reacts.

Psychological damage from noise is very real in our everyday life, yet we are hardly aware of it. Although stress to the nervous system begins at 65 dB., annoyance with noise starts at 80 dB. so that we could have already incurred physiological damage before becoming aware that we are annoyed by the noise.

There are many sources of noise in the home, used every day and taken for granted, which exceed 80 decibels, the point of annoyance. Besides amplified music, vacuum cleaners, air conditioners, dishwashers, alarm clocks, food blenders and garbage disposals all dispense noise which surpasses the level which causes hearing damage and the point at which physiological and psychological responses occur.

Outside the home, grinders, drills and motors, and power lawn mowers are extremely high on the noise scale.

Because of this, it is likely that much family strife and dissension would be reduced if the noise factor were taken into consideration and noise were diminished to a place below the stress level.

It is conceivable that accidents and some social problems caused by stress could be significantly reduced if noise sources were buffered.

In streets, factories and offices the risks are great from excessive noise and there is an impact on the economy as efficiency is impaired and accidents occur as a result of noise and its effect on the human body. The U.S. Air Force has set 84 decibels as the maximum recommended noise level for its personnel. A garbage truck at 200 feet or a 10 horse power outboard motor at 50 feet both register on the noise meter at 84 decibels.

We are all exposed to the noise of cars, trucks, trains and aircraft every day. Along with background noise, all these noises are combined to raise the noise level (ambient) around us to a nerve jangling peak the damage of which has barely been recognized by the general public, but which physiologists consider stressful and even dangerous.

The State of California recognizes the dangers of noise and requires that each city prepare a Noise Element as part of its general plan. The Noise Element of the Livermore General Plan is an informative document prepared by George Musso, Director of the Planning Department for the City of Livermore, and the Noise Abatement Committee, a volunteer body of citizens which consisted of Robert Anderson, Elwood Bona, La Verne Cave, Burt Gasten, Franklin Halasz, Allan Hyne and Richard Marsh.

The composition of the committee has now changed as Bona, Gasten and Hyne have recently gone over to the Energy Conservation Committee. However, the technical expertise of the committee remains high. The city owns a noise meter which is used by the committee to take readings whenever citizens complain of noise.

They also consult with the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District concerning the location of parks and playfields, and with the Livermore School District about the location of schools. This is in addition to the input for the Noise Element.

The purpose of the noise element is to identify local noise sources, establish goals to be achieved in noise abatement, and to suggest a program of noise control to maintain a quiet community.

Reducing noise at its source is probably the most effective method of minimizing community noise levels. The noise element suggests and explains building modes which would buffer noise or reduce it at its source in future construction of buildings.

Linear parks along freeways are suggested as buffer zones and also as green belts. Noise levels for existing sources such as the airport, the freeway, school playgrounds and soccer fields are given for the Livermore Community. Placement of noise producers in relation to residential areas is discussed in this highly important document which could have great impact on our future health and peace of mind.

La Vern Cave, current chairman of the Livermore Noise Abatement Committee, measures the volume of sound which comes from a home stereo system — a volume which often exceeds a level considered safe for our sensitive hearing organs.

Take a noise pollution quiz

How do you rate the elements which form the sound backdrop to our modern world?

Number the following in order of their ability to put out sound, i.e., the loudest element comes first. Then look at the correct order in the next column.

Experts says that hearing impairment begins at 70 decibels. The U. S. Air Force recommends a maximum limit of 84 decibels. Annoyance level is set at 94 decibels, discomfort and danger at 100 decibels, the pain threshold at 120 decibels and a lethal dose at 180 decibels.

By AL FISCHER

Latest of the science-fiction horror films is making the rounds with valley movie fans risking nightmares or, at the least, upset stomachs by viewing "Squirm."

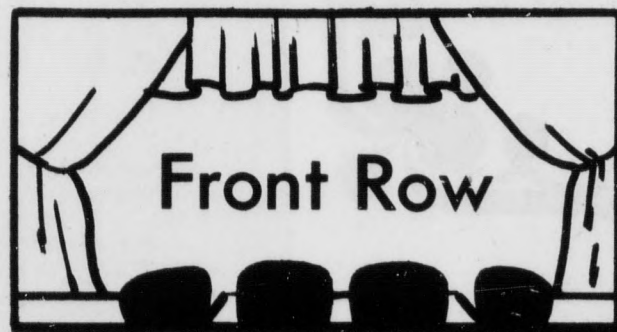

The basic plot involves one of man's best friends, the worm. Only in this epic, the worm multiplies into a battalion of human-devouring monsters.

"Squirm" was written and directed by Jeff Lieberman, who did all his research for the film at the Circle "O" worm ranch in Pleasanton. The Circle "O" is located on Stanley Boulevard just outside the Pleasanton city limits and is one of 11 in the group located in Nevada, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and locally.

Bill Ross is president of Circle "O" and his son-in-law, John Sullivan, is a vice-president and co-owner.

Lieberman did his research at the Pleasanton facility about eight months ago, though the movie was shot in Georgia.

In the movie, the worms start to turn during an electrical storm on the Georgia coast. Power lines snapped during the storm shoot current into the worm "cities" located below the surface of the ground, causing the wiggly things to revolt (!) and attack the human population.

Sullivan says that when the movie premiered in San Francisco, they provided a display of worm beds and a million worms. The staff employee who accompanied the display reportedly went inside to see the double bill and quickly became ill — seems "Squirm" was playing on the same bill as "The Exorcist."

If you're a sci-fi fan, and have a high tolerance for such things, the movie has been playing at the Dublin - San Ramon Drive-In as well as the Showcase in Walnut Creek.

Those who saw "George M" at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre will be interested in learning the Concord Blue Devils won the international drum and bugle corps title in Philadelphia a week ago. A small contingent of the Blue

Here come the woodcarvers!

The popular woodcarving show sponsored by the local chapter of the California Carvers Guild returns to Livermore's Carnegie Park Sunday, Sept. 12. About 50 woodcarvers from throughout Northern California will participate in the event for a third year for the sheer pleasure of sharing and promoting their craft (no emphasis on sales). Many age groups, techniques and styles will be represented in the show, open free to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For information contact Pat Finigan at 447-3186, a member of the Tri-Valley Chapter which encompasses Alameda, Contra Costa and San Joaquin counties.

Wayside Weavers and Spinners and the Livermore Art Association which co-sponsors the event.

The wine-tasting and preview is open to the public free of charge from 7 to 9 p.m. The exhibit will continue through November.

Participants in the show are Sandy Bowers (basketry technique), Virginia Brown (hooked rugs), Elizabeth Fraser (knitted lace, traditional weaving), Sharon Gardner (Rya wall-hangings), Ina Laffer (bobbin lace, handspun and natural dyed pieces), Wilma Myers (loom-controlled and handspun - natural color pieces), Adele Nickison (traditional woven rugs), Thale Struthers (warp brocade), Bertie Williams (bobbin lace and traditional weaving), Nancy Briemle (contemporary non-loom hangings), and Diane Harmon (off-loom circular hangings).

Special attraction will be Clarence the Colonial Creature, a handspun three-dimensional figure woman by Elizabeth Fraser.

The textiles will be complemented by black-and-white shadowgraphs (reverse photographs) of craft tools, the work of Photographer Robert C. Myers.

Local art featured

Artists Barbara Joan Smith and Jo Coleman of Pleasanton have been invited to exhibit their work at the Garden Cafe Gallery at Burlingame beginning Sunday, Sept. 6.

The gallery is operated by the Stanford Women's Auxiliary, and all gallery proceeds are donated to the Children's Hospital at Stanford.

A San Francisco art collector, impressed by the work of Ms. Smith on display at the Rio Rico Resort near the Mexican border in Arizona, was influential in engaging the interest of the gallery. The exhibit features the Collectors' Group III composed of Ms. Smith, Ms. Coleman and Marjorie Nichols of Arizona.

The gallery at 1447 Burlingame Ave. is open to the public weekdays from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Pleasanton street fair rentals open

Artists and craftspersons are invited to rent space at the Pleasanton Daze Street Fair set Sept. 24, 25 and 26.

Fees are $15 for non-members of the Pleasanton Art League, and $10 for members. There will be no percentage of sales levied by the fair.

For application forms and further information contact Billie Schermer at 846-5437, or write her at 5744 San Antonio St., Pleasanton, 94566.

Hobby or crafts exhibits

A special feature of Festival '76 will be a display of personal hobbies or collections. Non-profit organizations are also welcome to set up a display booth at no charge.

All artists or craftsperson who wish to sell their work must also demonstrate their art or craft. Fee for sales booth is $5 per booth with a 10 per cent surcharge for profits over $50.

All persons will be responsible for their own booth set-up. For further information contact Jan Brice at 443-5867.

Severin, Van Slyke plan joint art show

Charlotte Severin and Barbara Van Slyke, two well-known figures on the valley art scene, are preparing for a joint exhibit at Franklin Savings and Loan's Main Street office in Pleasanton which opens with a preview reception Friday, Sept. 17.

Timourian at Sun Gallery

Dorothy Timourian, a member of the Livermore Art Association, is featured in a one-woman show at the Sun Gallery, 1015 "E" St., Hayward.

The show is open from Sept. 10 through Oct. 10, Thursdays through Sundays from noon to 4 p.m. A reception for the artist Sept. 10 is set from 6 to 9 p.m., and wine will be served.

Mrs. Van Slyke is president of the Pleasanton Art League which sponsors the exhibit. Formally trained as a photographer, she has been recently engaged in textile art: stitchery, needlepoint, macrame, off-loom weaving and soft sculpture.

Barbara teaches stitchery at the Castro Valley Adult School and a fiber workshop for the Pleasanton Recreation Department.

Mrs. Severin is primarily a watercolorist who has painted since the age of 12. She also works in acrylics and oils. Charlotte was the recipient of a major purchase award at Livermore's Festival '75.

The preview reception will be open to the public from 7 to 10 p.m., and the exhibit will continue through Nov. 17 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Devils performed in "George M" — and if you were seated on the aisle you risked getting smacked by the aggressive flag-wavers.

Vintage 30s and 40s film buffs will have a field day this fall with more and more theaters scheduling classic festivals.

First-up is a ten-week retrospective at the Castro Theatre in San Francisco, which got underway last night and goes through Nov. 9.

Located on upper Market Street, the "Salute to Warners" opened with "Casablanca" and "Now Voyager," which will be screened through next Tuesday. "Footlight Parade" and "42nd Street," two early 30s films, play Sept. 8-11.

Tickets may be obtained through BASS outlets. More information on the films scheduled may be had by calling the Castro at 621-6120.

Jose Feliciano performs this evening at 7:30 on the plaza stage at the California State Fair in Sacramento. The gifted guitarist and singer will be at the Concord Pavilion on Sunday evening.

Following Feliciano at the State Fair will be the Pointer Sisters Friday night, the George Gobel Show Sunday and Monday and Pat Boone next Tuesday, the final day of the Fair.

For Thursday, Sept. 2, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You know what needs to be done today, but you'll expend only a portion of your talents in doing it. Consequently, your reward will be small.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Don't be upset with subordinates today because they're not producing as you feel they should. Possibly it will be because of your example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Gambling on the unknown today will prove to be a costly folly. It's best to believe only what you can grasp in mind or hand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Your spirit is willing today but the flesh is weakly weak. It's unlikely you'll exhibit the resolve to overcome a tough problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You have a tendency today to start projects you're not apt to finish. A cluttered-up workroom will probably result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Don't expect too much from people you know only as passing acquaintances today. There's no substitute for tested friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
There is apt to be friction in your household today, but don't seek to place the blame on others. It could be your own.

that's troubling the waters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Crystal gazing for trouble that might happen is the way of fortune tellers. Keep your cool. Attack problems when they occur.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Don't seek scapegoats today for foul-ups that can be directly attributed to you. Everyone will know who the real culprit is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
The least effective weapon you could use today is intimidation of underlings. Just remember: Every dog has his day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
If you're disturbed about something today, don't stew about it silently. The only way to get relief is to bring the matter into the open.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Try not to badger pals over picaresque issues today. It's far better to strengthen bonds of friendship than to weaken them.

Your Birthday
Sept. 2, 1976

This year should be an exciting one for you. You'll be both adventurous and enterprising. Don't let your boldness exceed your good sense, however.

West cashed his king of clubs and shifted to a heart. South took his ace and led a spade to dummy's ace. When East showed out South cashed one of dummy's high diamonds, ruffed a diamond to get back to his own hand, took the proven finesse against the queen of trumps, played another trump to pick her ladyship up and claimed, since he could ruff one club and discard his last two hearts and the other club on high diamonds.

The slam is almost impossible to bid unless North and South are playing a valuable modern convention known as the splinter bid.

It is a valuable convention if you remember it. When North jumped to four clubs he was showing a raise to four spades based partly on his holding of a singleton club.

This information allowed South to revalue his hand. True, he only held five high-card points, but his ace of hearts had to be worth its weight in gold and he did have a six-card suit. So South cue bid his ace of hearts. This was enough for North to use Blackwood and then jump to the spade slam.

Without the splinter bid, it would have been almost unbidable.

Falcons have depth

Ask Foothill High School head football coach John Lupoi what his team's biggest asset is this season and he'll give you a quick answer.

"Our two- platoon system," he smiled. "For one thing, we get less injuries that way. Also it makes for high team morale because more people get a chance to play. Instead of 13 players playing at least 22 will start the contest."

There's a big reason why Foothill has the two- platoon system this year.

More bodies. This year Foothill has 33 players on its varsity. Last season the total dipped to 16 after the Monte Vista game. During the last half of the season the young Falcons won three games, basically because their injured players returned and they went to the two- platoon system.

The Falcons will need more than depth to win in this, their first full season in the East Bay Athletic League. However, they seem to have that problem solved, too. Foothill has several outstanding All-EBAL potential players.

The defensive line where Foothill is strongest and for good reason.

Senior Tony Trujillo, a huge 6-2, 238 pound middle guard, leads the way for the Falcon defense.

"Tony has great agility and quickness for his size," Lupoi admitted. "He's a definite All-League athlete."

Besides Trujillo the Falcons also have defensive tackle David Ledbetter, guard John Ulrich and line-backer Mike Colvin.

Colvin is another top prospect. He is the fastest man on the team, having run the 40 in the 4.7-4.8 range. With his size (6-1, 195) he is a great asset to the defense.

Ledbetter, at 6-1, 210 pounds, could almost be as good as Trujillo, according to Lupoi, and he reflects the Falcons' spirit this year.

"I think we have a good chance at the EBAL championship," the husky lineman said. "We've been working really hard in camp and we really want to win."

The defensive line averages 205 pounds per man, making it one of the EBAL's biggest.

On offense the Falcons will use a multiple offense, with several running backs alternating.

EBAL 440 - yard gash champion Craig Johnson is probably the fastest back on the team. Joining him are Brad Cotton, Russ Humphries and sophomore Tim Cordice. Cotton is the largest running back at 6-foot, 190 pounds and is also a speedburner.

Junior Ken Henderson is the starting quarterback. He started most of last season and has improved greatly this year.

"Henderson has a good passing arm and is really a poised athlete," Lupoi said about his quarterback. "He took over last year and did a really good job."

The offensive line should give Henderson more protection this season. Eric Moran, a 6-4, 230 pounder, is the biggest man on the offensive line-up. Other top blockers are guard Virgil Ridge (6-foot, 180 pounds) and center Ken Franco (5-10, 185 pounds).

Colvin will handle the punting and Ledbetter the kickoffs and extra points. Ledbetter, a good-all ar-just one."

The first game of the season offers some tougher competition. The Falcons play Vanden of Travis Air Force Base Sept. 10 in Fairfield. Vanden was one of the better teams in the Sacramento Section last season.

Lupoi thinks Livermore, Amador and Granada loom as the teams to beat in the EBAL race. He also thinks highly of San Ramon and Dublin.

"San Ramon has players up from their undefeated junior varsity," he said. "They also went undefeated as freshmen so they have the winning attitude going for them."

"Dublin should also be tough," he went on. "They always seem to be up for us. They were in the freshmen and junior varsity games in the past."

Of course, Lupoi also thinks his own team has a chance for the championship. He has those "quality" players and PLENTY of bodies.

Times SPORTS

ound athlete, could also play center in case of an injury. He started the first half of last season.

The Falcons play Canyon of Castro Valley in a scrimmage Saturday in Castro Valley.

Lupoi is optimistic on the outcome.

"We've set goals for each of our games this season," he said. "We're aiming to score three touchdowns against Canyon and allow

'Count' beaten

Giants edged, 1-0

NEW YORK — Jerry Kosman hurled a three-hitter and John Miller doubled home Felix Millan in the eighth inning Wednesday, giving the New York Mets a 1-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants and John (Count) Montefusco.

Millan had opened the bottom of the eighth with a double over the head of Gary Matthews, who was playing a shallow left field at the time. Miller followed with his double to left.

Kosman raised his record to 17-8 with his third shutout. Montefusco now is 13-12. He had shut out the Mets and Kosman 5-0 on June 11 at San Francisco.

Kosman surrendered two hits in the third inning and one in the fourth. He struck out six and walked one while Montefusco struck out seven, putting him fourth in the National League with 148. Kosman has 147 strikeouts.

Montefusco allowed only four hits in six innings, two of them coming in the second when Ed Kranepool and John Stearns singled. The bases were loaded when the San Francisco righthander beamed Bud Harrelson, but the Mets shortstop stayed in the game.

The threat ended when Kosman grounded into a force out.

The Mets threatened again in the third when Bruce Boicclair led off with a single, but was thrown out attempting to steal second. Felix Millan followed with another hit and Miller walked, but Dave Kingman popped up to first base and Kranepool hit into a force out.

With one out in the third, Montefusco singled to left, the first hit off Kosman. Larry Herndon followed with a single to right, but Montefusco was thrown out trying to advance to third on a throw from Kingman to third baseman Roy Staiger.

Herndon then was thrown out trying to steal second.

Marty Perez opened the fourth with a single, but was thrown out stealing by Stearns. The only other Giant to reach base was Herndon, who opened the game with a walk.

Won't miss Blanda

Raiders division favorites

OAKLAND — With George Blanda gone, will pro football be the same?

Well, no one's betting the final standings in the American Football Conference's Western Division will be much different. The Oakland Raiders, with rookie Fred Steinfeld in Blanda's old placekicking job, are heavy favorites to win their ninth title in 10 years.

The Raiders' 11-3 record last year left them far ahead of Denver, 6-8 and runner-up a third consecutive time. John Ralston, at the end of a five-year coaching contract, was without the services of star running back Otis Armstrong and key blockers last season and probably will lose his job if the Broncos don't make a strong run at Oakland this year.

The Kansas City Chiefs are calling this a rebuilding year and the San Diego Chargers hope the young players who struggled through a 2-12 season in 1975 have matured into winners. Former University of Southern California Coach John McKay is realistic enough to say that four or five victories would make it a most satisfying season for his new Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

"We have a built-in weakness as a team because the players haven't played much together, even though some are experienced," said an official of the expansion team whose proven talent collected from other National Football League teams includes quarterback Steve Spurrier, tight end Bob Moore, offensive linemen Mike Current and Howard Fest and defensive lineman Pat Toomay.

Conversely, the Raiders have the built-in strength of experienced hands back for another try at the AFC title. Coach John Madden's team has lost the last three championship games to teams which went on to Super Bowl triumphs — the Miami Dolphins in 1974, the Pittsburgh Steelers the past two years.

The passing of Ken Stabler, who has two of the NFL's top receivers in Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch, and a veteran line makes Oakland one of the game's most feared offensive teams.

The most experienced player in NFL history, the 48-year-old Blanda, is gone, of course, and fullback Marv Hubbard may miss the season because of a shoulder injury. Moore, starting tight end for three years, went to Tampa in the expansion draft and linebacker Gerald Irons was traded to Cleveland.

"We've lost some players, but we've added, too, and I think we've improved ourselves," says Madden.

"We've got Ted Kwalick, who joined us late last season, and Ted Hendricks might be considered new since he didn't start much last year," the coach notes.

Former San Francisco 49er Kwalick figures to share tight end duties with Dave Casper, whom Madden calls the most improved young player on the team, and Hendricks joins Phil Villapiano and Monte Johnson in the starting linebacking threesome.

Ballistic teams head for Canada

The Ballistic Soccer Club will send five teams to two different tournaments in Canada over the Labor Day weekend.

Three Ballistic United squads, under-12, under-14 and under-16, will depart for Calgary, Alberta today while the Ballistic National under-12's and Ballistic American under-14's head for Prince George, British Columbia.

Both the United under-12's and under-14's open with 10 a.m. games with Forest Lawn's age group sides Saturday while the under-16's tangle with the Chinooks.

Meanwhile, out west, the Nationals will be the only American team in their bracket. The side has racked up an impressive 8-0 pre-season record and has won its games by an average score of 7-1.

Several games are scheduled each day with the finals Sunday afternoon in both tourneys. All five squads will return home Tuesday.

Cordova picked for opener

Mike Cordova will start at quarterback for Stanford when the Cardinals open their 1976 football season Sept. 11 against Penn State, coach Jack Christiansen announced yesterday.

Christiansen picked Cordova over Guy Benjamin, but stressed the starting assignment was only for the Penn State encounter, and not necessarily for the entire season. Both are seniors, although Benjamin has another year of eligibility remaining.

"It was very tough to pick one over the other," said Christiansen, who waited until after yesterday's practice to make the decision. "But from what I've been able to see, Mike is slightly ahead of Guy."

Cordova has been the starting quarterback in the season opener for the past two years, and was particularly impressive against Penn State in 1974 when he passed for 301 yards and two touchdowns in a 24-20 defeat.

But Cordova has turned in poor performances, too. And on those occasions, Benjamin has been exciting, often brilliant.

Last season, Christiansen had to decide who was No. 1 before each game. Cordova and Benjamin combined for 2,357 yards passing, with Benjamin starting the final two contests.

After meeting Penn State the Cards must take on powerful Michigan, second-ranked in the country in pre-season polls and the Big Ten favorite.

Police unit opposing dog racing

California Peace Officers' Association, representing sheriffs and chiefs of police across the state, has voted unanimous opposition to Proposition 13, the dog racing initiative on the Nov. 2 ballot.

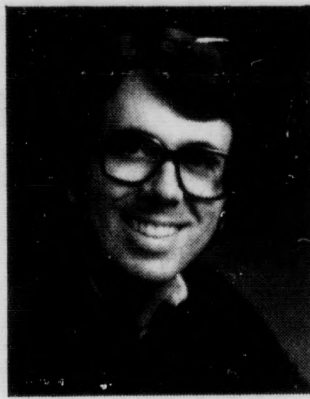

The group described Prop. 13 as "an invitation and an opportunity for organized crime to gain a foothold in California."

The association said that Prop. 13 would lead to a regressive form of taxation, taking funds from those who can least afford it.

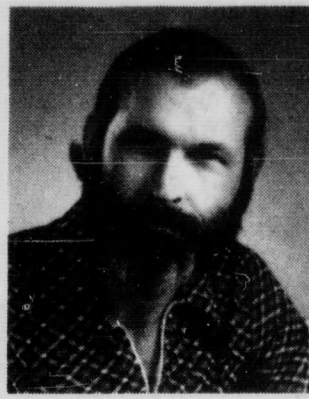

"Prop. 13 would create a whole new clientele, people who are not now gamblers, and thereby will provide a fertile ground for the growth of loan sharks, a vital part of organized crime," said Jay Stroh, police chief of Inglewood and president of the group.

Bicentennial commission

Alameda approves $2,900 grant

OAKLAND — The county's bicentennial commission is getting an additional $2,900 to add to its $40,000, five month budget, county supervisors ruled yesterday.

The windfall, which commission chairwoman Marie Cronin hopes to use for awards and certificates of appreciation for the group's workers, comes from some $3,800 in donations and sales of mementos.

The county "seeded" the commission with some $900 in starter money that went directly toward the purchase of mementos before their distribution or sale to the public, according to county administrator Loren Enoch. The county now will get back its "seed" money.

Only north county supervisor Tom Bates, who is campaigning for outgoing State Assemblyman Ken Meade's post, voted against the measure.

Bates said all the funds should revert to the county, claiming "this really is the

"B-u-y-centennial."

The $40,000, five month budget includes $20,560 more "seed" money the commission will use for its heritage, festival and horizons bicentennial themes. Each request for "seed" money must be cleared by the board of supervisors, however.

The commission last year spent $65,000 of its allotted $69,000 budget, according to Cronin, returning $7,200 to the county and carrying over some $4,000 for the remainder of the year.

The money went towards the county wide historical site marker program and restoration and preservation projects including the May and Old Murry Schoolhouses in the valley.

The commission also sponsored publication of a book on the history of the de Anza expedition and books on ethnic histories in the county.

The county seeded bicentennial program will wrap up its 18-month program this November.

Amador adult ed classes to offer 30 new courses

Spectator football, a problem-solving rap group and basic sailing techniques are among the 30 new courses that will be offered by Amador Valley Adult Education starting the week of Sept. 20.

One-hundred twenty-eight courses have been scheduled. Classes will be conducted at Dublin High, Amador High, Camp Parks, Pleasanton United Presbyterian Church, Pleasanton Convalescent Home, Harvest Park School, Foothill High, Komandorski Village and Pleasanton Greens.

Among the other new courses slated are reading improvement, job seeking techniques, secretarial brush-up, educational planning for parents, cartooning, crafts for senior citizens, community chorus, partners in education, home security, know-your-valley-birds, advanced sign language, physical activities for the elderly, international cooking, and wind-driven electric generators.

Dog racing promoter to testify in court

The California Supreme Court will hear arguments today from dog racing promoter George G. Hardie, who is attempting to overturn sections of the Political Reform Act of 1974, enacted by voters as Prop. 13.

Hardie versus (Secretary of State March Fong) Eu will be heard in San Francisco.

Hardie brought the suit to prevent the Secretary of State from enforcing political reform laws that restrict the amount one can spend in qualifying a ballot initiative. The law allows about $80,000, or a little over 25 cents per necessary signature, for a legislative initiative to cover all paid petition circulation.

People Against Prop. 13, a Los Angeles-based organization opposed to the Nov. 2 ballot measure, contends Hardie's suit "seems to be tacit admission that his campaign broke the law in placing Prop. 13 on the November ballot."

On Aug. 18 the dog racing campaign filed a campaign statement listing $109,120.80 in expenditures, a figure which People Against Prop. 13 believes "far too low to account for all the activities the report is supposed to cover."

The suit against Secretary of State Eu is only one aspect of the questions surrounding the dog racing effort. People Against Prop. 13 claim two entirely separate matters concern, (1) A subpoena of the Fair Political Practices Commission for Hardie's and his campaign's cash records PAP-13 bases this on a "suspicion" that the dog racing interests violated another section of the Political Reform Act which limits cash contributions and expenditures to $50 so that "traceable records will be kept."

On Monday, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Norman R. Dowds found Hardie in contempt for refusing to comply with sentencing Wednesday.

A second matter concerns (2) Hardie's August 18 report. The proponent of a ballot initiative is required to file a comprehensive report for 65 days after qualification. In this instance, according to PAP-13, the report was to have covered all activities through last Aug. 6, whether attributable to the signature gathering effort or not.

People Against Proposition 13 believe the main issue is a constitutional question of whether the state may limit the amount spent on the signature collection phase of a campaign.

A decision for Hardie would have the effect of removing any penalty that might arise from paying petition circulators more than the law allows.

Potter's wheel professional

Use of the potter's wheel, glazes and kiln will be explained and demonstrated by Shirley Walden during fall classes of the Livermore Area Parks and Recreation District. Classes will be held in the Barn on Pacific Avenue beginning Sept. 20. Adults and children have sessions scheduled for Monday evenings, youngsters from 5 to 7 p.m. and adults from 7 to 10 p.m. for eight weeks.

Livermore adult ed signups closing

LIVERMORE — Registration is almost over for adults planning to go back to school in the evenings this fall. The Livermore Adult School registration closes Wednesday, Sept. 8 — although if there's still room in a particular class, you may be able to squeeze in even after the course begins. Registration fee is a modest $4. There is usually an extra fee for special supplies for courses such as photography, art and cooking.

The adult school catalogue lists courses that will help you figure out your income tax, make a dress, paint a picture, decorate your home, raise livestock or get a radio license — to name a few of the many avenues evening education can open up. A complete brochure is available from the adult school office, 3044 East Ave. (tel. 447-6671).

Office hours for registration are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sewage metering plan eyed

PLEASANTON — The city is advertising for bids for a sewer metering system which will help keep track of effluent to the VCSD sewage treatment plant.

Bids must be in to city hall by 2 p.m. September 30. Estimated cost of the metering system is around $60,000 to $70,000. The system also will have equipment to flush out a siphon under the flood control channel near the line, a factor which makes the bid proposal more costly than a mere meter.

Installation of the meter will make it easier to pinpoint anything which could go wrong, according to Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby. It would prevent any future "mystery million gallons" of sewage from suddenly inundating the VCSD plant, as occurred a few years ago, Sooby said.

Developer's check nixed by Raymond

Valerie Raymond's first campaign donation from a developer was returned because the developer has a proposal pending before the County Board of Supervisors, her husband Bill Raymond told The Times Tuesday.

Raymond couldn't recall the name of the developer, but the firm has a proposal pending in Castro Valley, he said. Amount of the donation was $1,000, a larger sum than either she or her adversary for the First District Supervisorial seat, incumbent John Murphy, has received to date.

Ham radio club sets opening

The Mt. Diablo Amateur Radio Club will teach a beginners course in amateur radio starting September 21 at College Park High School, Pleasant Hill.

The course is free and open to the public. Classes will meet for 12 weeks on Tuesdays from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. A set of textbooks, costing $5, will be needed. For an additional $2 the student can join the club for the remainder of the year.

Registration will be at the first class from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Students should bring note pad and pencil to class. College Park High School is located at 201 Viking Dr., Pleasant Hill, across Viking Drive from Diablo Valley College. Classes will meet in Room B-1.

The course will offer elements of radio law, radio theory and the telegraph code. It will prepare students for their novice class license. Instructors are club members who are licensed radio operators and will volunteer their time and services. The class prepares the student to transmit five words per minute in Morse code and also will include general theory.

Amador's flag champs

Amador Valley High School's flag girls proved their top-ranking among prep contingents throughout the Bay Area by winning 21 ribbons and two trophies at the San Jose State University Camp of Champions July 15-18. The trophies are for congeniality and superior rating. In front are Erin Larson, Dianne Valdez and Debbie Gettman, with Corrie Erker and Paula Vargas in back.

Pleasanton traffic unit to meet in search of anticipated problems

PLEASANTON — A group of citizens will gather this evening in the home of Chris Kincel to begin the process of trying to build a governmental structure to better deal with the city's traffic problems.

Kincel is a traffic engineer who works for a Walnut Creek firm and lives in Pleasanton. He has been hired as a consultant through an $11,000 grant and considers the citizens committee input very important to his task.

The committee won't deal with specific traffic problems occurring in the city today. It will advise the city on how best to take its limited financial resources and focus personnel efficiently to deal with future traffic problems, Kincel told The Times.

The meeting tonight won't be open to the public, but citizens are encouraged to give input to the committee members. They are Phyllis Bullock, 5296 Golden Road; Chris Caulfield, 2439 Crestline Drive; Alden Wilson, 3559 Wind Cave Ct.;

Ken Geppard, 4436 Mohr, Apt. 20; Fred Staedt, 7420 Muirwood Ct.; Sandra Gunnarson, 517 St. Mary St.; and Don Savery, 6738 Rancho Ct.

The committee will deliberate for two or three months and Kincel expects to have his report to the city council by February or March.

Alameda County supports Dow plant but air control not ready to yield

SAN FRANCISCO — Dow Chemical Corp.'s proposed billion-dollar petrochemical plant complex, slated for construction along the delta but blocked by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, has won the unanimous support of Alameda County Supervisors.

But the board's resolution asking the district "to allow more flexibility" in current air quality standards and rescind its denial of permits for the plant carried little if any weight at yesterday's public hearing called by district directors.

More than 400 people, many carrying placards supporting the Dow project and claiming it would provide more jobs, jammed the California Room of the Jack Tar Hotel, the largest available meeting room directors could find.

BAAPCD directors had called the hearing to see how well district regulations conform with state and federal clean air guidelines. But to the multitudes it was a fight for the Dow plant and subsequent petrochemical processing complex.

Dow's application, denied by the district on grounds the area already has reached the air quality saturation point under state and federal guidelines, is for an initial, $50 million styrene monomer plant at Collinsville in Solano County.

The company has announced plans for construction of a complex of chemical factories that will span both sides of the delta and straddle Solano, Contra Costa and Sacramento counties.

Yesterday's hearing and subsequent meetings have been called to consider changes in the regulations that would allow the permit to be issued.

Alameda County Board of Supervisors Chairman Fred Cooper, who drafted the board's resolution, argues that his county has the highest unemployment in the Bay Area and that it will benefit from the "ripple" effect of construction and eventually permanent jobs based on the Dow plant.

"The Dow plant will process oil from Alaska when the Alaska pipeline is completed," he says, "and will break that oil down into various components to be used by various industries located throughout the Bay Area."

If the plant is not built here, it will be built somewhere else, he says, and the increased transportation that ensues will be worse than violating the local air quality standards.

Cooper claims the "minor relaxation" of the district's rules would allow the pollution equivalent of 30 to 40 taxicabs on San Francisco streets. He says both state and federal authorities have approved similar limits in San Diego and Los Angeles areas with more critical air pollution problems than the Bay Area, and that "it can hardly be said that our support of this change will create any major air pollution problems in Northern California."

Total air pollution in the Bay Area is going down, says Cooper, and "can be expected to go down substantially further over the next few years."

Dow's Western Division General Manager Ray Brubaker yesterday echoed Cooper, saying "You've got to get to the real problem, and that's the automobile."

Dow Chemical, recently fined $500 after pleading guilty to charges it destroyed a former marsh stream that stretched nearly a mile through the company's delta property, says the plant is the environmentally cleanest one possible within "economically viable" limits.

Contra Costa County Supervisors, the city of Antioch and the Association of Bay Area Governments also support modifications in the standards.

BAAPCD directors will continue the hearing on Sept. 15 when they are expected to consider recommendations that a special task force of industrialists, union representatives, environmentalists and elected officials study the full social and economic impact of the district's air pollution regulations.

LARPD courses to stress nature exploring for young

LIVERMORE — It's back to nature for parents and pre-schoolers who take part in the new "nature exploration" and "five senses of nature" courses to be offered this fall by the Livermore Area Recreation and Parks District.

Instructed by staff naturalist Alice Tetlow, the "five senses" class is designed for children 3½ to 5 years old accompanied by a parent. They will be encouraged to develop their natural sense and gain an enriched relationship with the natural world. Several field trips will be made in the Livermore area.

The exploration classes are for youngsters 7-10 and 11-14 who will explore ecology, geology and man's role in the natural environment.

Tetlow will also lead an adult backpacking trip to Point Reyes National Seashore with a night at Coast Camp on Oct. 2 and 3.

Another class, instructed by Eric Dyer, will give adults the opportunity to learn toy making at Granada High School Monday nights for nine weeks. Simple handworking techniques and use of power and hand tools will be covered.

Wood dowels and glue, instead of nails, will prevail as participants start with simple cars, trucks or buses before going on to the individual projects.

Dyer will also teach simple drawing and watercolor techniques geared for youngsters 7-12, Saturdays. Alden Lane Nursery is the site for a five-week series of classes on Care and Culture of House Plants, given by Paula Glauber Monday evenings. The sessions will cover transplanting, mass hangings, terrariums, light, watering, diseases and other problems with plants.

Betsy Delameter will instruct a program of Pre- and Post-Natal Exercise three times a week for six weeks for pregnant women and new mothers who will work toward general fitness, appearance and increased stamina for aid in labor, delivery and recovery. The warm-up, strength and relaxation program will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Melody Francis will teach tap rhythm, basic steps and routines to youngsters 5-7, 7-9 and 10-12 on Tuesdays at the Recreation Center.

A new session in the popular series of quilting courses, led by Winifred Griggs, will be "Quilting As You Go," a method off the frame which enables quilting enthusiasts to take their hobby with them. Lessons will be Fridays 10 a.m. to noon, with quilt making classes scheduled for Mondays during the same hours.

Ray Davidson, whose redwood burl creations have attracted attention in the Valley area, will again be presenting two courses: redwood burl clocks and redwood burl tables, Saturday mornings.

Registration for all LARPD classes will be held at the Recreation Center, 8th and H streets, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 14, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and will continue at LARPD offices, 71 Trevarno Road, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. until all classes are filled.

A brochure of information on LARPD classes and activities will be delivered to Livermore residents beginning the week of Sept. 6 and will contain registration blanks for Tiny Tot sessions, Tennis and Trampoline lessons for mail-in registration.

Present for Fairyland

LIVERMORE — Little Ingo Neumann of Livermore put on a wolf's costume and performed for the public on his skateboard Sunday as Children's Fairyland in Oakland celebrated its 26th birthday.

A towering cake big enough to serve a thousand and a special variety show highlighted the celebration in which several other Valley children participated. Former Valley resident Leslie Zimmerman did a dance as "Raggedy Andy."

The old city park, with its elaborate fairytale theme, provides the setting each year for games and shows directed by talented children from all over the Bay Area. The youngsters are chosen at spring tryouts and appointed to various fairytale roles.

With its picturesque setting beside Lake Merritt — as well as its modest admission price — Fairyland remains a low-key attraction for children of all ages.

"The Little Indian Brave" is the current puppet show and hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily.

Chabot's Cal author study

LIVERMORE — Chabot College's Valley Campus will offer a new course in literature this fall entitled, "Writers of California," Tuesday evenings from 7-9:30.

The class will offer valley residents an opportunity to examine California's rich literary tradition, reading and discussing the works of novelists and poets from all parts of the state. Emphasis will be placed on discovering how California's history and environment influenced its writers.

The class will try to evaluate the effect which the state's rapid growth and its integration of rural and urban values had on a consciousness which writers defined and criticized as the California way of life.

Writers whose works will be studied include John Steinbeck, Robinson Jeffers, Jose Villareal and Raymond Chandler.

Students can register for the class at late registration on Sept. 14 from 6-9 p.m., or at the Valley Campus during the week of Sept. 20.
